CENTACARE PRODUCE DIGITAL STORIES FOR ADULT LEARNER'S WEEK

Three...two...one...Action! Centacare staff became producers for an hour as they learned how to make their very own Digital Story. The workshop was part of Adult Learner's Week, an international celebration of adult lifelong learning.

With a $400 Adult Learner's Week Special Activity Grant, Centacare staff and clients were able to participate in the digital story telling workshops held at Perth, using state-of-the-art computer software. The workshop introduced participants to concepts in digital story telling. The practical part of the workshop looked at using a collection of digital photos that were taken of the staff as they worked, to create a slide show with the Proshow Gold software. The photos were brought to life with motion effects, added captions and various transition effects.

Different ideas were shared and staff were enthusiastic to learn how they could use their new found skills. They were quick to realise how this technology could be used to improve communication strategies at work; and also to enhance their personal photo collections at home. One of the participants included Sunam Saini, Contract Administrator at Centacare. Ms Saini felt that it was a great opportunity to learn in an exciting and fun way. "I didn't even realise I was learning something".
